

What's New?

Think you know everything there is to know about the Indiana State Fair? The following itinerary is recommended for the person looking to see what's new at the Fair this year!

1. Start your day in the new Visit Indiana Harvest Pavilion. This building offers an entertaining and interactive look at agriculture through exhibits like Amazing Maize: The Science, History and Culture of Corn and the Indiana State Fair LEGO® farm.
2. Make your way through the Purdue Extension Ag/Hort building and grab a fresh, local bite to eat for lunch. Here you will find some of your favorite edible exhibits, like the Honeybee Exhibit and the American Dairy Association's Cheese Sculpture.
3. This year, the Indiana State Fair Year of the Farmer presented by Dow AgroSciences proudly honors Indiana's farmers. Each day of the 17-day event will highlight a different farmer from a different commodity group in Indiana. Stop by the Glass Barn each day at 11 am, 2 pm, or 4 pm for a chance to Live Chat with a farmer, or stop by at 2:30 PM for your chance to chat with the day's Featured Farmer.
4. Located in the Family Fun Park, you won't want to miss seeing the Indiana Bicentennial Train. Enjoy the onboard exhibit, which explores Indiana's history through the lenses of transportation, land use, talent and community. While in the Family Fun Park, try and catch some of the fun entertainment performing on the Children's Stage, which makes its return to the Fair after 15 years! The Xpogo Stunt Team also performs daily at 3 pm, 5 pm, and 7 pm.
5. In the middle of seeing all the new things the Fair has to offer, stop by some of your old favorites. Ride the Ferris Wheel on the Midway or take a path through the Livestock Barns and celebrate what makes the Indiana State Fair special to you.
6. Try out some of the new foods offered at the Fair this year or stop by the Gazebo Gift Shop to grab a new keychain or license plate!
7. If you're visiting us any day other than Tuesday or Saturday, the 6:30 p.m. evening parade is the perfect capstone to your family's day at the Indiana State Fair. Enjoy the parade on our new Plaza outside the Indiana Farmers Coliseum.
